Vortex spreading equipment is being used at the largest theme parks in the United States, units are being used by the major maintenance, pest control and fertilization companies in the U.S., municipalities, aquatic weed control districts, park services, in-ground nurseries and individual owner operator companies. The Vortex spreaders will apply fertilizers, pre-emergent herbicides, ice melt products, granular growth regulators, aquatic herbicides and most granular or pelletized products used in an outdoor setting. All Vortex units are designed to withstand the corrosive materials used in the fertilization, aquatic herbicide and snow and ice removal markets. Materials used to produce all Vortex units are stainless steel, aluminum or plastic to avoid rust and corrosion.
